

Eisenhower in Friendly Chile on Latin Tour

By MARVIN ARROWSMITH

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Eisenhower today flew into friendly Chile to see a nation prospering by economic self-tightening. It was the third stop of his four-nation Latin-American tour.

The first U.S. President ever to visit this country, Eisenhower was assured a warm welcome during his two-day stay with Chileans noted for their hospitality.

Greeting Eisenhower on his arrival from Argentina was Chile's 63-year-old bachelor President Jorge Alessandri, who is spearheading a campaign to end the armaments race in Latin America.

The ceremonies at Santiago's modern Los Cerrillos Airport were brief with Eisenhower reviewing the honor guard and then setting out for an hour's drive through the capital in an open car.

Crowds lined the route to the U.S. Embassy residence along broad, tree-lined Alameda Bernardo O'Higgins, named for Chile's national hero.

The capital under the snow-capped Andes Mountains was gaily decorated with flags of both nations and hunting.

The enthusiastic Chileans went all out to match with hospitality the welcomes accorded Eisenhower by their richer and bigger neighbors, Brazil and Argentina.

Eisenhower, who has begun to show at times the physical strain of his grueling tour in tropical temperatures, was to lunch privately at the embassy before setting out on an afternoon of official ceremonies.

The afternoon schedule included the placing of a wreath at the monument to O'Higgins and then a formal call on Alessandri in the Presidential Palace to be followed by a private talk between the two Presidents.

Chile and the United States have long enjoyed friendly relations, and no political issues confront the two leaders.

Chile, with about 7 1/2 million people crowded into an area of less than 300,000 miles, has been plagued with one of the worst cases of inflation in Latin America.

The Alessandri government has won the support of the U.S. government and banks by instituting an austerity program that has brought good results.

But the cost of living is still very high, and wages are low, forcing many to work at two jobs.

Eisenhower came to this long, narrow country that hugs the lower west coast of South America after pledging with Argentine President Arturo Frondizi to work for better living standards in the Americas.

Mandate Held Pending Appeal

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Petition of Le Roy Smith, facing a three-year penitentiary sentence for manslaughter, for recall of the mandate against him was granted conditionally by the Arkansas Supreme Court today.

Smith plans an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, his lawyers said.

He was convicted in Arkansas County Circuit Court, and the state Supreme Court affirmed the sentence last Nov. 23.

The Supreme Court today said the mandate for his imprisonment would be held up if sureties wrote that his bond would continue in effect, pending the proposed new appeal.

U. S. Is Willing to Air Issues With Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States told Cuba today it is willing to talk over differences between the two nations but not under conditions proposed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

In a formal note again expressing friendship for the Cuban people, the United States invited Castro's regime to discuss through diplomatic channels, the time place of such talks and the subject to be discussed.

The State Department note, delivered to the Cuban Foreign Office at Havana today, specifically rejected Cuba's insistence that the United States promise no one-sided action against Cuba pending conclusion of the talks.

As set forth in President Eisenhower's statement of Jan. 26, the note said, "the government of the United States must remain free in the exercise of its own sovereignty to take whatever steps it deems necessary, fully consistent with its international obligations in the defense of the legitimate rights and interests of its people."

"The government of the United States believes that these rights and interests have been adversely affected by the unilateral acts of the Cuban government."

Court Favorable to College Proposal

By LEON HATCH

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today approved transfer of control of Little Rock University from the Little Rock School Board to a separate Board of trustees.

The unanimous court adopted, with a slight modification of wording, a decree of Pulaski Chancellor Murray O. Reed which ruled that funds could not be withheld from the university because of the change in supervision.

The university derives its income from a trust set up by the late Gov. and Mrs. George W. Donaghey. Three downtown Little Rock buildings are owned by the trust.

The Donaghey bequest, made more than 30 years ago, specified that the school board should manage the university which then was Little Rock Junior College.

118,000 in U. S. Have a Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) — If today is your wife's birthday, this is a bad year to forget it. She and 118,000 other Americans have been waiting four years for one.

Another 11,000 members will be born into the Feb. 29 club today, the census bureau estimates.

The wait is in a good cause, though. Without that Feb. 29 every fourth year, we'd be running into such things as white fourths of July and hot Christmases.

Trouble is, the earth doesn't roll around the sun in an exact 365 days. It takes an extra five hours, 18 minutes and 45.51 seconds, notes the National Geographic Society.

Julius Caesar kept dates from getting ahead of season by adding an extra day to February every four years in his Julian calendar.

But the correction proved a bit strong. The solar year gradually got ahead of the calendar year. By the 16th century, Pope Gregory had to decree no leap year in century years not divisible by 400. That's why 2000 will be a leap year though 1800 and 1900 were not.

Feb. 29 babies, when they grow old enough to celebrate their birthdays, latch onto Feb. 28 or March 1 during off years. During the reign of Henry VII the British Parliament actually authorized Feb. 28 for the purpose.

Cold Takes Hold and to Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold temperatures gripped Arkansas today and the weatherman looks for more of the same tonight and tomorrow.

Scattered light rain or snow is in the statewide outlook tomorrow, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau at Little Rock.

The mercury dropped to 12 degrees at Rogers today. Other minimum readings ranged from 16 at Fayetteville to 33 at El Dorado.

Some snow fell yesterday and last night in north Arkansas but the weather bureau said it had no reports of snowing in any part of the state today.

Rogers had five inches of snow on the ground. Flippin reported four inches on the ground and Fayetteville had three inches.

Schools in the Rogers area were closed today because of road conditions.

Lows tonight are expected to range from 15 to 25 in the northwest and extreme north and from the mid 20s to mid 30s elsewhere.

Today's highs are due to vary from the low 20s to low 40s.

Allies Plan to Resume Flying Air Corridor

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France have decided to resume flying the air corridors between West Berlin and West Germany at altitudes above 10,000 feet. This is a practice with which Soviet fighter planes have interfered in the past.

The Soviet Union is being notified of the decision, it was reported here today, so there can be no misunderstanding on Moscow's part of what is involved.

The three Western powers, with about 11,000 troops to maintain as a protective force in West Berlin, have long insisted that there is no limitation on the altitude at which their supply and transport aircraft can fly into and out of West Berlin.

The air corridors traverse the territory of communist East Germany.

The Soviet Union, by contrast, has claimed a 10,000-foot ceiling was established by agreement between Soviet and Allied authorities years ago. Moscow, contends that any flight above that limit is a violation which can subject the high-altitude aircraft to the attention of Soviet fighter planes.

The issue was sharply drawn last March 27 and April 15 when several U.S. turboprop planes flew above 10,000 feet in the assigned corridors over East Germany. Soviet fighter planes made passes around the U.S. aircraft. After an exchange of accusations between Moscow and the Western capitals, the practice of flying above 10,000 feet was halted although the right to do so was firmly asserted by the U.S., British and French governments.

The Western nations called off the hounds as a precaution lest it look like the west was deliberately seeking an incident.

Soil Radio Active

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radioactive material scattered by atomic explosions tends to accumulate in the soils of lowlands, the Agriculture Department reported today.

The department reported, however, that the present levels of radioactivity from fallout from atomic explosions are still several hundredfold below the levels of radioactivity naturally occurring in soils.

High Court Upholds Validity of the 1957 Civil Rights Measure

Ruling Came as Senate Starts Rights Battle

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate battle over civil rights legislation turns into an endurance contest today with the star of around-the-clock sessions.

Leaders called on senators to meet at noon for the start of the third week of the bitter election-year struggle, and planned to keep going nonstop until something or somebody gives way.

In this manner they hoped to break the resistance of Southern foes and force the legislation to a vote.

The outnumbered Dixie forces were ready to strike back with every parliamentary resource at their command. Their leader, Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), said Sunday they are determined to talk the bill to death.

The Southerners have no detailed campaign plan, Russell said in a television interview, but will "play it by ear from day to day."

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) conceded in a radio interview the Southerners have a chance of killing the bill or watering it down. The outcome depends, he said, on how "the uncommitted group in the Senate will act."

He said he referred to some Western and border state senators.

Much of the Senate's other business was inevitably grinding to a halt; cots were being set up in the Capitol for use by senators through the long, weary nights ahead; clerks, doorkeepers and other employees were going on overtime shifts.

Not since July 1954, in a fight over public vs. private development of atomic power, has the Senate been up against a comparable situation. In that battle, extending over 11 days, the Senate had four all-night sessions.

The longest single nonstop Senate session shown in records of the Senate press gallery ran for 54 hours and 10 minutes. That was in February 1915, during a fight over a bill for the purchase of German ships interned in American harbors.

How long the Senate session starting today will last no one knows, but behind-the-scenes maneuvering is going on and will continue in an effort to find a way out of the impasse.

Teletype Workers Return to Jobs

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Union workers who struck Teletype Corp. last week in an apparent dispute over wages were back at work today.

The 235 members of Local 2022, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, trooped back to the job without a signed contract but there were reports that one is in the offing.

Neither the union nor the company has disclosed in detail what issues were involved in the walk-out. However, both indicated it revolved around wages.

Seeks Bill to End Capital Punishment

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock attorney Kenneth Coffelt hopes to get a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish capital punishment in Arkansas on the November general election ballot.

Coffelt represents condemned slayer Emmett Earl Leggett, who has won a dozen reprieves.

Coffelt said the long-drawn case has convinced him that capital punishment is obsolete.

Several months ago Coffelt said he was considering running for governor on an anti-capital punishment platform. He said his current proposal has nothing to do with politics.

Leggett, now 23 was sentenced to death for the strangulation of 14-year-old Joe King near Jacksonville in December of 1935.

Rules Woman Had Right to Move Child

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — An Arkansas Supreme Court majority today upheld the right of Mrs. Lois Ward to move her three-year-old daughter from Fort Smith to a trailer home at Tenkiller Lake, Oklahoma.

Three of the seven justices dissented.

The majority opinion set aside a ruling of Chancellor Franklin Wilder of Fort Smith. Wilder had held that the new home presented a hazard to the child and he refused to let Mrs. Ward and her husband, Orman Ising, take the child to Oklahoma.

Harry Ward, father of the child, is the husband of Mrs. Ising.

Justice George Rose Smith, speaking for the Supreme Court majority, wrote that he could not agree that the slope of the lake shore and nearness of the lake itself presented great dangers to the little girl.

"If one is inclined to be fearful, the threat of danger can be discovered everywhere," he said.

"An attempt to shelter a growing child from every possible danger is manifestly futile, and it is certain that complete security cannot be achieved by means of a court decree."

Smith said that a Sebastian County social worker had inspected the trailer and testified it was a suitable home for the child.

Chief Justice Carleton Harris and Justices Ed P. McPadden and Jim Johnson dissented to the majority ruling.

Georgia Ruling Is Reversed by Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld validity of key sections of the 1957 Civil Rights Act.

The sections had come under attack in relation to the Justice Department's efforts to enforce Negro voting rights in Georgia.

In a unanimous decision, the Supreme Court overturned a ruling by U.S. Dist. Judge T. Hoy Davis in Macon, Ga., that the sections were unconstitutional.

Davis said they were invalid because they gave the attorney general authority to seek injunctions against private citizens as well as state officials. He held Congress could not extend federal authority into that field.

Justice Brennan delivered the high court's decision.

Justice Frankfurter wrote a separate concurring opinion, joined by Justice Harlan.

The court's ruling came almost at the hour that the Senate was meeting for what may be several days of around-the-clock sessions in a battle over new civil rights legislation.

The Justice Department's appeal from Judge Davis' ruling was argued Jan. 12.

At that time the department asked the high court for a quick reversal of the Davis decision as being "clearly wrong."

Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, in personal argument, said the Davis decision "has delayed and hampered the United States in its efforts to make the 15th Amendment fully effective for citizens of the Negro race."

The 15th Amendment says states may not interfere with voting rights.

In the first case filed by the Justice Department under the 1957 act, the government complained to Davis that voting registrars in Terrell County, Ga., had discriminated against qualified Negro voters who wished to get on voting rolls.

Rogers argued the governments request for an injunction was against state officials—the voting registrars — and not private individuals.

Charles J. Bloch, Macon attorney, argued for affirmation of Davis' decision. Bloch said ample judicial remedy was provided under Georgia law if the complaints against the registrars were valid.

"Until Georgia courts have had an opportunity to pass on the registrars' actions, there has not been any denial of rights by Georgia," Bloch insisted.

Rogers told the Supreme Court that among Negroes kept from registering in Terrell County on literacy grounds were four public school teachers with college degrees.

The attorney general insisted Judge Davis had gone far afield in ruling on validity of action against individuals since the government was suing voting registrars who were state officials acting under authority of state law.

Brennan's opinion said that in this particular case the conduct charged — that is, discrimination by state officials within the course of their official duties, against the voting rights of U.S. citizens on grounds of race or color — is certainly state action and "the clearest form of it, subject to the ban of the 15th Amendment."

Legislation designed to deal with such discrimination is appropriate legislation under the 15th Amendment, Brennan asserted.

"It makes no difference that the discrimination in question, if state action, is also violative of state law," the justice said.

who was found shot to death in his automobile told police they were mystified by the weekend slaying.

William A. McKnight, 54, was killed by a bullet in the back of the head. No gun was found in his car.

He had money in his wallet, so police ruled out robbery. The car was parked in the employees' parking lot of the University of Arkansas Medical Center. McKnight's body was behind the steering wheel.

"I would have sworn he didn't have an enemy in the world," said Russell W. Bratton, who lives near the store McKnight operated. "He was a nice guy," a happy-go-lucky type. He always had a joke for everyone."

The grocer left his store early Saturday afternoon to deliver an order. He never returned and his wife reported him missing. Yesterday morning city and state police broadcast an alert.

A man who had seen McKnight sitting in his car in the Medical Center parking lot Saturday night saw him there again yesterday and summoned medical center personnel.

A doctor pronounced McKnight dead and police were called. Authorities said the death bullet apparently came from a pistol, probably a .38 caliber. Police admitted they had no suspects and very little to go on.

DOROTHY DIX

Rebuffed Suitor Won't Take Hint

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I am going to be married next July to a boy I love very much. Before we became engaged we had a spat. I dated another boy a few times. When I made up with the one I loved, I told this other boy I wasn't going with him again. He would not stay away. I have written him to stay away but he keeps coming to my house. My boy friend has told me if he finds out that this other boy is still coming to my house, we are through. Please tell me what to do. I'm nearly 18.

A Mixed-up Kid:
Dear Mixed-up Kid: My gentle mother, widowed when I was a child, had the brush-off technique down to a fine point. The dispiriting letters of rejected suitors were returned unopened; their telephoning and door-bell ringing ignored. When some of the more determined walked our block, mother would pass them haughtily by with a you're-the-dirt-beneath-my-feet look. After a week or so of this, the boys took the hint. None ever died of broken hearts. My leaflet, Broken Romances may be of help. It goes to you today.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
My husband started to push me around when we had an argument, so I left. He found someone else. It has hurt me very much. Where could I have failed? My husband started the divorce, but I got it. Do you think there is any chance he will ever come back? I wrote him and received a mean answer. — E. S.

Dear E. S.: What's done is done. Try and forget the bitter past. Face the future courageously, serene in the knowledge that when the half gods go the full gods come.

EGG PRODUCER BEATS TROUBLE TO THE PUNCH

Moving in fast with feeds containing Aureomycin is a form of good management this operator uses to keep egg production up

On the ten farms comprising the Henny Penny Farms at Toms River, New Jersey, 50,000 Kimber laying hens are busy dropping eggs. Keeping these hens up to a production average of 70% or better demands good poultry practices and alertness for every sign that says "trouble."

Doesn't wait for trouble

"We can't afford to wait until the birds' appearance tells us something is wrong," says Mr. Sam Siegel, manager of out-flocks. "The time to start medication is as soon as feed consumption goes down. Birds are like children — they won't eat properly when they're feeling ill or under stress. We recognize the warning of trouble ahead and promptly start giving AUREOMYCIN® in their mash; 100 grams per ton as a preventative, or 200 grams per ton if disease appears."

Sees quick improvement with Aureomycin

Mr. Siegel is enthusiastic about results. He says, "AUREOMYCIN serves both as an appetizer and as a tonic for the birds. The same day the fortified mash is started, we see an immediate improvement in the birds."

Birds at the Henny Penny Farms are fed on an all-mash system. The bulk mash is blown into feed towers atop each hen house, where it is stored. Either automatically by time clock, or by manual control during the day, the mash is conveyed along the troughs on a continuous feeder.

Aureomycin protects against stress

"We always try to get there ahead of stress," continued Mr. Siegel. "We give AUREOMYCIN when birds are moved — before birds are vaccinated — and whenever there is a sudden deterioration in the weather. In warm months, disease often breaks out. We may notice blue comb or general sluggishness. When we do, we come in with high-level feeding of AUREOMYCIN for a period of 5 days and the birds are soon restored to good condition."

Stay ahead of trouble as Mr. Siegel does with the protection of AUREOMYCIN. AUREOMYCIN is the wide-spectrum antibiotic that is most effective against CRD, blue comb and invisible, sub-clinical diseases. Ask your feed manufacturer or feed dealer for layer feeds containing this wide-spectrum antibiotic. American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, New York 20, New York. AUREOMYCIN is a trademark for chlortetracycline.

"Good poultry methods are nothing short of vital to our continued success. That's one big reason we use AUREOMYCIN."

"Moving, handling, vaccination, weather changes... these are all stresses. We stay ahead of them with AUREOMYCIN."

ing the conference's second place team. Smiley hit for 24 points and played an excellent floor game driving for repeated crisp shots while Larry Vaughn scored 16 points and turned in his best game of the year from the post position. Thurman hit for 12 and excelled along with Vaughn in the rebounding department.

Calhoun scored 5, Robinson 4, and Churchwell, Walton and Erwin one each to complete Hope's scoring.

The Cardinals two big men Bobby Carter and Bobby Morgan were pretty well checked with Carter scoring only 4 points and Morgan 8. The Fairview tally's were well distributed with four players, Morgan, Broadnax, Howerton and Churchwell scoring 8 points each; Purifoy scored 7, Carter and May 4 each and Bush 3 to complete the 51 point Fairview total.

The Junior Varsity game was a close thrilling contest throughout. Hope led by three point at the half 26 to 23; saw the margin dwindle to 35 to 34 and the end of three quarters; and with four minutes left in the game the B team Cardinals went ahead to stay closing out with a 49 to 45 win.

Larry Hooten was high point man for Hope with 14 points followed by Roberts with 10.

Dunlap led the Fairview B teamers with 11 points followed by Anderson and Kelly with 8 each.

The Fairview series was ended up at one apiece in the conference round robin schedule the Cardinals having downed the locals 45 to 39 in the opening game of the series played February 6 at Fairview.

Next Friday and Saturday the Bobcats will wind up the 1950 season by seeing action in the Conference Tournament to determine the three teams that will enter the state meet in Blytheville.

Snackover, Fairview and Hope hold down the first three places with 4th being either Crossett or Arkadelphia depending on results of last week.
